

WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH NEAR DOOR TO SAFETY

Flames Repel Two Rescuers

Mrs. Lucille Calder, about 53, last night was burned to death in the kitchen of her two-storey Esquimalt home at 448 Grafton. Her body was found slumped in a dinette chair less than 10 feet from an unlocked outside door and safety.

Esquimalt Const. Peter Dougherty braved the flames and fierce heat which had driven back two would-be rescuers. He brought out Mrs. Calder, but he was too late. She was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday.

The fire apparently started in the living room of the modern bungalow and quickly spread through the kitchen and a bedroom.

Esquimalt Fire Chief Gilbert Stancombe declined to say what caused the fire.

"There might be an inquest," he stated.

Mrs. Calder was alone in the burning house. Her husband, Herbert J. Calder, had not yet returned home from work when a neighbor noticed smoke coming from the house about 6 p.m. and telephoned the fire department.

"Water in the kitchen sink was running full blast when we got there," Chief Stancombe said. Mrs. Calder's clothes must have been burning when she became aware of the fire and dashed to the kitchen sink to put them out, he suggested. Then, apparently, she slumped dazed to a chair, ignoring the door to safety.

One-Arm Fight with Police

COURTENAY (CP)—A young theft suspect here Tuesday night wrestled police with one arm while holding his baby in the other.

The struggle was related in police court here Wednesday when Kenneth Babcock, 25, was charged with obstructing an officer and with theft of a car wheel.

A companion, Harry Joseph Muckle, 27, faced the same charges.

Babcock and Muckle, both from Royston, were spotted removing a wheel from a delivery van after Babcock's car developed a flat nearby.

While one constable attempted to force Muckle into the patrol car, Babcock grappled with another mounted with one arm while holding his nine-month-old infant in the other.

Pleading guilty to both charges, the pair each were fined $75 for obstruction and $100 for theft.

Grappling for breath, Esquimalt Const. Peter Dougherty recovers after dashing into burning house in brave attempt to rescue Mrs. Calder. Spectators praised his efforts.

Where Esquimalt Woman Died

Fatal error for Mrs. Calder came when, with her clothes ablaze, she stumbled past an unlocked door which would

'A Horrible Sight'

Neighbors were crowded around outside when the firemen arrived and watched as Const. Dougherty entered the burning house and carried out Mrs. Calder's body.

"Her body and her hair were burned. It was a horrible sight," one bystander said.

Instead of fleeing through the nearby kitchen door, she had groped for the dinette chair where her charred body was found. The plastic chair covering was burned where she sat, and pieces of clothing hung to the chair. Most of the clothing had burned away before she was found.

A neighbor, Mrs. Kathleen

Walker, 444 Grafton, said she and her husband, David, came home from work about 5:10 p.m. "but, we saw nothing then."

"My husband was going out the back door when he saw smoke coming out of a window next door," she said. "There were no flames. He telephoned the fire department."

Mrs. Walker had lived next door for two months, but never had an occasion to speak to Mrs. Calder. A collie dog, named "Missy," was in the house at the time the fire, Mrs. Walker said. She later telephoned the Oak Bay Pet Clinic to come and pick up the singed, frightened animal.

'Don't Go In,' She Shouted

John Ettema, 1402 Beatty, who lives across the street from the Calders' corner house, said he saw Mr. Walker go up the outside stairs leading to the Calders' kitchen.

"I heard Walker's wife shout 'Don't go in,' and Walker turned around and came back down."

He said James Dunn, 1404 Beatty, then ran up the same stairs and "opened the door, but didn't go in. He came back down and stood in the street," Mrs. Ettema said.

Mr. Ettema said both he and Mrs. Ettema liked the Calders. "They were very nice people, and friendly. She was a good-hearted woman with a sense of humor," he stated.

Mr. Dunn said: "I saw smoke coming out of the eaves. I rushed over and opened the door. Flames shot out, and the house was black with smoke. I couldn't get past the flames, and I couldn't see a thing inside the house. I closed the door and came back down."

Mrs. Clarice Dunn commented, "She was a woman that minded her own business... never bothered anyone; a friendly 'good morning' or 'good afternoon' if she met you out," Mrs. Dunn said.

Saturday afternoon was the last time they had spoken to Mrs. Calder. "She was quite jolly, never dreaming anything like this would happen to her," Mrs. Dunn said.

Broke the Sad News

The victim's husband arrived at the scene after Mrs. Calder had been taken to the hospital. "I broke the sad news to him, and he headed toward the hospital," Chief Stancombe said.

Stop A-Tests Russians Warn

LONDON (AP)—The Russians yesterday broadcast a threat to end their suspension of nuclear weapons tests unless the Western nations quickly follow their example.

The house was a shambles. It had been an intense inferno and heat still radiated from the walls even after nearly an inch of water flowed across the floors.

Furniture in the living room was burned, and a large hole had been burned in the wall separating the living room from the master bedroom. A half-empty bottle of rye whiskey was found on the kitchen sink.

The old contention that fish and power cannot live together on the Fraser River looks like being disproved.

With millions of sockeye milling around the mouth of the Fraser fisheries authorities looked with dismay on the low state of the river.

At Hell's Gate—the Fraser River fish bottleneck—one of the two fish ladders is dry.

With only one ladder in operation, only a part of the great Almas River run could hope to make the spawning grounds. Instead of whistling for rain, the fisheries authorities appealed to Aluminum Company of Canada.

Would Alcan open the sluice gates of its great Kenney Dam just enough to raise the level of the Nachako River so that it would pour the extra water into the Fraser and put the second fish ladder into operation, Alcan said it would.

This week the gates at Nechako were opened to increase the spill-over from 10,000 cubic feet a second to 12,000, which will raise the Fraser at Hell's Gate about nine inches.

It that isn't enough, Alcan can increase the flow to 20,000 cubic feet a second—enough to raise the fish ladder level 4½ feet.

An Alcan spokesman said the only problem was not to let out too much all at once in case of flooding down the Nechako Valley.

He said the increased flow from the Nechako would begin to take effect at Hell's Gate about Sept. 21. "Just when the sockeye run is due,"

British Tariff Drop Tonic for Conference

100 Per Cent Boost For B.C.'s Markets

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Wednesday Britain's reduction of import restrictions on goods from Canada will increase British Columbia's potential markets by 100 per cent.

MONTREAL (CP)—

With a showman's sense of timing, Britain Wednesday opened her doors wide to Canadian newsprint, salmon and machinery, and hinted that restrictions on such things as pots and pans, clothing and other consumer goods may soon be lifted.

In an announcement that transformed the atmosphere at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference, Britain's Sir David Eccles proclaimed "almost a clean sweep" of controls on dollar imports of industrial, agricultural and office machinery.

NEXT MOVE

The next move, he said, will be to free imports of consumer goods and any foodstuffs still banned from the United Kingdom.

Sir David, president of the board of trade, a British government department, gave the perhaps equally significant word that colonial governments are being "invited" to relax restrictions on a wide range of dollar goods.

Some colonial restrictions are tighter than those applying in Britain.

Sid David's 600-word statement, following so closely on earlier United Kingdom pronouncements indicating an almost tremulous British approach to trade liberation, caused a minor sensation among delegates on this third day of the two-week Commonwealth trade meeting, biggest since 1932.

Finance Minister Fleming, of Canada, chairman of the conference, promptly called it a "statesmanlike stroke." Only Tuesday Mr. Fleming had appeared to rebuke Britain as he forcefully called for complete convertibility.

Economic experts made these general reflections on the startling British move:

1. The statement will have a tonic effect on Commonwealth trade, Australia and other sterling-area countries will presumably follow the British lead.
2. It shortens the odds against

Reds Reject Cease-Fire

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's official mouthpiece has rejected the idea of a cease-fire in Formosa Strait while American and Red Chinese ambassadors confer in Warsaw on the crisis.

Peiping People's Daily said: "There is no question of a cease-fire since China and the United States are not at war."

New Zealand has maintained that Canada's "agricultural protectionism" has hurt New Zealand's chances of getting rid of a heavy surplus of cheese, butter and other dairy products.

New Zealand butter would sell here at a third less than Canadian butter.

No Strike at Ford For Three Years

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union agreed yesterday to a three-year contract which is expected to set a pattern for 600,000 auto industry workers.

The settlement ended a six-hour strike at Ford plants throughout the nation. Workers walked off the jobs at 86 company plants and parts depots when no agreement had been reached by the strike deadline. The new contract gave the union improvement in unemployment benefits, pensions and job security, the matters UAW president Walter P. Reuther called "pressing human needs." The 98,000 workers will get 10 cents an hour boost retroactive to July 1.

B.C. Judges 'Living Slave-Life'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice A. M. Manson says justices of the B.C. Supreme Court live like slaves.

The province badly needs four more justices to add to the present 12, he told the opening session of the Washington State Superior Judges' Association here Wednesday.

"We live the life of slaves on the bench, which is ridiculous and absurd," he said. "With only 12 judges we have no time to sit and meditate over our judgments."

"Quite frankly, we can't keep up with our work."

'I Stepped Inside That Cabin And My Stomach Heaved'

Worst Indian Homes Are Filthy Firetraps

(This is the 20th chapter of "The Strangers," a searching report on the plight of B.C.'s native Indians)

By G. E. MORTIMORE

A firetrap Indian house burns down, and three children die. Their uncle and aunt, who were supposed to be looking after them, are away drinking.

Elsewhere, eight persons eat and sleep in one small room. There is no plumbing. Garbage is piled at the door. A tin stove pipe crowds a wooden wall.

The entire adult population of an Indian village, except for two or three stubborn abstainers, goes on an alcoholic binge. Teen-aged boys come to school with hangovers.

A balliff calls to repossess a television set. He finds it almost the only article of furniture in an Indian cabin. The father of the family is out of work. The mother and two children have nothing in the house to eat and drink but some bread and a bottle of pop.

More Attention

All those things have happened among native Indians within the last five years. Similar things have happened among whites, too, but the faults and mishaps of racial minorities always draw more attention.

On the other hand, some Indians are wealthy farmers, loggers, and fishermen. Some are stenographers, nurses, teachers and clergymen, living cheerfully in modern houses on the reserve or in town.

In between the extremes is a mass of people living decent, shabby lives in dwellings that range from cabins to ramshackle mansions.

Both Sides

People with axes to grind can pick out evidence to "prove" that Indian Canadians are degraded, lazy and unclean; or hardworking, adventurous and progressive; well housed or living in hovels; snubbed and exploited or fairly treated and welcomed as friends.

In fact, they are all these things at once. They are human beings, in varied circumstances. Each of them is an individual who deserves individual treatment. However, the majority of Indians are human beings with special problems. Their average income is low. Their level of health and education is below the general average. They do suffer economic and social discrimination.

Low Standard

One of their problems is inadequate housing. Many Indians do in fact live in hovels. Indians who live in good houses and keep them in perfect order are inclined to feel insulted when Indian housing and sanitation are discussed.

Chimneys are major cause of fires in Indian homes.

Typically, the floors and walls were of bare boards. There were no books. Pictures on walls colored photographs torn from the Star Weekly, or Victorian photographs of great-grandparents or great-grandmothers, alongside crucifixes and crinkled snapshots tucked into crevices of door frames.

Sometimes there was wall paper peeling off in sheets, hanging perilously close to the stovepipes that wriggled their way up from drum heaters to wobbly chimney connections. Many houses had only the stove pipes running directly through a wall or ceiling, in some places touching the wood.

In one house in the Cowichan Bay area, a frail-looking drum heater—rested on only three bricks. I put my hand on the bare planks underneath. They were hot.

"This is dangerous," I said to the young mother in a shabby loose dress, who stood gazing at us with the smallest of her three children in her arms.

She agreed. But when I returned a few weeks later, it looked exactly the same. Fully half the Indian homes that I visited in various parts of British Columbia would have been condemned instantly by any fire department as too hazardous to live in.

Heavy Toll

Twenty-four per cent of the people who died in B.C. fires last year were Indians, and 53 per cent of all children burned to death were Indian children. Indians form less than three per cent of the B.C. population.

One of the poorest places I saw was a hut about nine feet long by six feet wide at Burns Lake, B.C. The walls were lined inside and out with cardboard from cartons. A little boy greeted me with a smile at the door—but all his teeth had rotted off at the base, which spoiled the effect.

I had to bend low to pass through the door. "We're always banging our heads," said the man of the house apologetically. He and his wife—a tired looking but pretty young woman in a dress that looked as though it had been made from a flour sack—both smiled at me.

Rotten-Rancid

The light in the cabin was dim. A reporter is supposed to keep his head in all emergencies, and to make a mental record of precisely what he sees, but once in the cabin I found that the rotten-rotten smell was so overwhelming that it drove all other thoughts from my mind. I tried to look around and ask questions, but my stomach was beginning to heave.

I dived for the door, gulped fresh air and tried to cover up by turning around and continuing the conversation. If I had remained inside the cabin another 10 seconds, I would have vomited.

As I said goodbye, the lady of the house timidly uttered the only word I had heard from her during my visit. "Sorry," she said plaintively, as though apologizing for her existence.

No Right

The inhabitants of this little community are Babine Indian squatters who have no right to the land. They moved down here some years ago in search of work. Some of their tiny cabins of rough lumber are new and clean-swept. But there are wide chinks in floors and walls. These shacks would be uncomfortable places in 40-below-zero weather—despite blazing fires in the dangerous-looking stoves.

The Indian affairs branch is making arrangements to buy some land from an adjacent reserve and settle these people in better houses. Some of the worst distress and the most squalid houses are to be found among Indian squatters like this.

Then the old house burned down, lost everything. I don't know how.

I saw a number of poor houses a few miles from Victoria's city limits—some of them within view of white men's split-levels and ranch homes.

Three years ago, a research team headed by Prof. Harry Hawthorn checked 405 Indian houses in 18 communities and found that they were occupied by 504 families. Some households included three, four and five families.

The survey showed overcrowding and a predominance of small houses. A typical Indian house, according to calculations, was 25 feet long by 20 feet wide and 10 feet high. Half of the houses sampled were larger. But 50 per cent were smaller than this median size.

In B.C. there was an average of 5.8 persons to each Indian house, compared to 3.3 persons per dwelling in the province as a whole. Indians averaged more than twice as many persons per room as the general population.

Far Behind

A survey showed that Indians lagged far behind the rest of B.C. and Canada in the conveniences of living. By comparison with the 1951 census, the Hawthorn research team found that only 39 per cent of B.C. Indian houses sampled had electric light, compared to 87.8 per cent for all Canada.

Only 11 per cent of B.C. Indian houses had flush toilets, compared to 76.3 per cent of all B.C. houses and 65 per cent of all houses across Canada. Only one per cent of Indian houses in the Interior and 21 per cent on the coast, had flush toilets.

Ten per cent of B.C. Indian houses had a bath or a shower. (B.C. figure, 74.7; national figure, 57.7). Three per cent had central heating (51.9, 48.9).

Tired Carrying

Many West Coast of Vancouver Island Indian villages have poor water systems, or none. Indians at Hot Springs Cove must walk 200 or 300 yards to fetch water from a stream. "By the time we're ready to scrub the clothes, we're tired out," a woman from Hot Springs Cove told me.

Some West Coast villages people's dwellings. But when a every 20 or 25 houses.

Numbers of Indian villages have put in light and water since the Hawthorn figures were compiled. But from the viewpoint of comfort and sanitation, Indians are still substandard.

The Hawthorn report warns again false comparisons. Indian rural houses should not be measured against "white people's houses in the city, for example.

"It is not always easy to identify an Indian home. Reserves are... seldom publicly marked... A visitor to the British Columbia Coast... remarked with disappointment that he had seen no Indian communities in the course of his voyage. In point of fact he had docked at two Indian villages, and he had seen several more from a distance.

"Experience would have aided him to identify clusters of Indian houses, but none of the criteria he would have used would have been uniquely Indian. Lack of paint, rough construction, antiquated design, ill-repair, lack of fencing or gardens—all these characteristics are found in some of the housing of white settlers. And there are many Indian houses differing in no respect from modest white houses.

Can Be Spotted

But the authors of the Hawthorn report appear to be leaning over backward to avoid being unfair. There are surely many Indian villages which can be picked out unerringly by any layman.

I have seen them time and again from an airplane or across an inlet, a line or cluster of unpainted buildings looking like the ghosts of houses, only the day-school and the church and perhaps one house gleaming with new colors.

Certainly, they are no better or worse than many of the white ing houses are gathered in one place, the odds are that they form an Indian village. Nothing is to be gained by dodging the fact that many Indian houses are too small, lacking in comforts, and in need of paint and repairs.

Why Don't They?

"Why doesn't the government do something to help the Indians?" asks one group of critics.

"Why don't they do something to help themselves?" another faction demands.

Both the government and the Indians are building houses. But there are financial and psychological difficulties which hinder them from building enough to meet the needs of a rapidly-expanding population.

Highest Peacetime Award

Honor Makes Hero Weep

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—A hero's tears welled into the eyes of Pvt. Ray Maruschek Wednesday as he received the U.S. army's highest peacetime award for his actions when a plane crashed in Minneapolis Aug. 28.

and 2,000 fellow soldiers passed his wheel chair—he suffered knee injuries in the mishap—in a special review to pay tribute to his bravery. "Gee, I didn't expect all this," the shy, 19-year-old Phillipsburg, Pa., soldier exclaimed as the 4th Division artillery with its helicopters, observation planes, tanks, mounted rocket launchers, big guns and trucks clanked past.

Standing five feet, five inches tall, and weighing only 138 pounds—the Maruschek ripped a hole in the hot metal fuselage with his bare hands and helped passengers escape, min-

Driver of Dark Car

Police Appeal For Witness

Central Saanich police appealed last night for the driver of a "dark English car" to come forward with any information he or she might have on the Keating Cross-Road death of an elderly Chinese pedestrian.

Police Chief F. L. Brownlee said the unknown driver was not being regarded as a "suspect" in the death of Chin Yuk Chun, 72-year-old Chinese known to many police for his habit of walking along rural roads in this area.

Chief Brownlee said the aging Chinese had been picked up and taken home "dozens of times" by RCMP and municipal police who found him wandering along roads "sometimes at the side, sometimes out in the middle."

His last walk ended in his death Wednesday night on Keating Cross-Road.

Chief Brownlee said the driver of a dark-colored English car, "probably an older model Austin," was sought as a link in the chain-of investigation into the fatality.

He said statements had been taken from a number of motorists, some of whom must have seen the elderly Chinese "within five minutes of his death" at around 8 p.m.

Funeral arrangements at Sands funeral home had not been completed late yesterday.

PRINCE GEORGE—Tony Beauchamp, 21, missing 23 hours from his home near here, was found asleep near a pipeline right-of-way Wednesday about two miles from his home.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Communist countries failed Wednesday night to keep the UN General Assembly from debating the June execution of Imre Nagy.

PRINCE RUPERT—A "terrific" sockeye salmon season, with record catches and prices around 28 cents a pound, was reported here. One boat caught approximately 70,000 sockeye.

OTTAWA—Some 50 picketers organized by the Labor-Progressive Party paraded with placards in front of the U.S. Embassy, accusing the U.S. of "aggression against Communist China."

EDMONTON—Arrangements have been made for the "very fullest study" of submarine transport as a means of aiding northern development, said Resources Minister Hamilton.

'YMCA Won't Sacrifice Principles for Money'

Victoria YMCA won't take the easy way out by becoming a rich man's club, YMCA president Arthur Stott told Victoria Labor Council last night.

"We feel we could vastly increase our revenue by making it a rich man's club," he said. "But if we did, we would not only sacrifice our principles, but would eliminate all of our services."

Mr. Stott was invited to council after a recent meeting at which a delegate thought the Community Chest could have a better chance of reaching its objective without the YMCA, YWCA and Scouts.

After detailing YMCA services, Mr. Stott pointed out that the fee for boys aged from 9 to 17 years was $5 in 1911 and is "only from $3 to $10 now."

Let's Get On With It

IT is interesting to note that the idea of a civic auditorium has come up again in official circles. In a way this seems almost hard to believe, for if there is one subject that has been bandied about in recent years without any forward action being taken it is that of an auditorium. The arguments in its favor need not be repeated. Everyone knows that, as Mayor Scurrah puts it, "we sure need it."

This being so it is all the greater cause for wonder that officially nothing has been done about it. There was an opportunity to take a worthwhile step forward when the four local councils sought to agree on a centennial project, but the usual bugbear of non-co-operation became operative. This is the biggest drawback to any project embracing the interests of the Greater Victoria community. If the four municipalities could sink their parochial attitudes and adopt the motto of "one for all and all for one" there is no end to the benefits that might accrue.

The proposal that discussion of a civic auditorium should be revived comes from Councillor Sammon of Esquimalt, and this is a refreshing incidence. It might herald a new approach to the subject. Perhaps all four municipal councils for once may sense the need of unified action and really get to grips with the project. Certainly it seems fair to conclude that unless the matter is pursued actively on an official level there never will be a civic auditorium.

The inter-municipal committee should remind itself of the fairly solid promise of Premier Bennett to enable Greater Victoria to secure an auditorium. One might even have read in his remarks at the time an inference that the government might supply one of itself. Revenues perhaps are not so flourishing now as they were then, but Mr. Bennett has never withdrawn his promise, and there is no reason to think he would not do what he could to help promote the project.

The City let that opportunity go by default. It was not up to the premier to initiate things; the follow-up belonged to the City. With every reason in fact Mr. Bennett may have concluded the City was not really interested since it did not move to take advantage of his offer. Perhaps the four municipalities can now get together and show that on this subject at least they can work in unison for the combined good of this area.

Long, Short and Medium Loans

TERMINATION of the three new conversion loans offered for five Victory bond issues of short maturity has left Finance Minister Fleming with a substantial success in his first effort. It did not put any cash in the government's hands, however, but on the contrary will cost a good deal of money in cash benefits, brokerage and higher interest rates. Announcement of the 13th Savings bond issue, coupled with a concurrent offer of two short loans to meet an October maturity, have put the Dominion back into the money market with both feet.

This almost simultaneous recourse to short, medium and long-term borrowing chiefly for refunding purposes still leaves the Dominion with a heavy budget deficit and other cash requirements to be funded this year; unless it is assumed that the new savings bonds in conjunction with a relatively small balance on the new short-term loans can do it all. As the total weight of the treasury's borrowings this year apart from the main refunding operation are anticipated to be approximately $1,500,000,000, that is expecting a lot.

Since the Dominion began its large conversion program all junior authorities, such as provincial and municipal administrations, have suspended their own calls for fresh capital. So too have corporations in respect of their needs. Investment circles have watched the government to see what the federal treasury policy would be. Now the first moves to fill the government's loan needs have been taken, but without developing any clear picture. Refunding $5,000,000,000 of war debts, some for quarter of a century, leaves them to be paid off with double weight. Borrowing $600,000,000 in 9 and 18-month terms to retire $400,000,000 of a loan issued last January cannot make much impression on the Dominion's current needs. Meanwhile the savings bond issues, supported at par, are being continued wide open and with an extended term.

In these steps so far as they have gone Ottawa has made small, if any, disclosure of an ultimate policy. At the moment the Canadian bond market is thoroughly confused.

Costly Trimmings

GEEGAWS, gadgets and gingerbread built into or attached to the modern automobile of North American design are pushing costs sky high; but the price the buyer pays to the dealer is only the beginning. It takes no more than a minor accident to bring home to him the fact that so long as he has a car he never stops paying for a lot of fancywork that adds nothing to its performance. The dealer doesn't get the money; the insurance company does.

Today's automobile "styling"—excessive grillwork in front, fragile and vulnerable fishtails with a multiplicity of lights behind and chrome trimming serving no useful purpose along the sides—is the chief reason why insurance costs so much and, according to predictions the other day, is going to cost still more. The average price for repairing front or rear-end damage today is ten times what it was a few years ago. Higher wages and cost of materials in the repair shops are a factor, of course; but if automobiles weren't all cluttered up with useless decoration the rates wouldn't need to be anything like as high as they are now.

The galling aspect of this for the motorist who would be satisfied with a functional vehicle to get him from here to there in reasonable comfort is that through insurance premiums he has to pay for the Detroit fashion whether he follows it or not. Insurance rates have to be fixed in proportion to the aggregate of claims in a year. A motorist may drive a small imported car of simple design which could have superficial damage repaired cheaply, but from the insurance company's point of view there is always a chance that he will smash up one of Detroit's garish monsters.

The motorist who must have the biggest and supposedly best, who fancies that a showy, over-decorated car with overhanging ends and useless fins adds to his social prestige, may be willing to pay for this extravagance in high premiums, but they are a bit tough on the rest.

Interpreting the News

Iraq Is Torn in Two Ways

BEIRUT (AP) — Two influential forces are tugging from different directions at the regime of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem in Iraq.

He must satisfy both by persuasion, compromise and manoeuvre to maintain stability. Western diplomats say this will not be easy.

On one side is the Baath Arab Socialist Resurrection party, an organization of political activists extending throughout the Arab East. Members of this party spearhead the emotion-packed campaign for the establishment of one Arab nation to the Persian Gulf.

On the other are 1,000,000 non-Arab Kurds, about one-sixth of Iraq's population. These are tough mountain people of the north who have a different dream of nationalism. The Kurds want all of their numbers in Turkey, Iraq and Iran united in one national Kurdistan.

According to some accounts even Egypt's President Nasser, the leading figure of the Arab unity movement, often is prodded by Baath influence. Syrian members of the party sometimes boast: "We are the ones who taught Nasser Arab nationalism."

Kassem already has made great efforts to woo the Kurds. Baghdad Radio keeps repeating: "Kurds and Arabs are brothers. They must stay together."

The old regime of the assassinated Nuri Said—himself part Kurd—had six nationalist leaders in jail at the time of the July 14 revolt. Kassem freed these men.

Kassem invited Mustafa Al-Barazani, an even bigger Kurdish leader, to return from exile in Czechoslovakia and Mustafa accepted.

With Soviet encouragement Mustafa led the Kurds against both the Iranian and Iraqi governments in 1946, at a time when the Iranians were trying to get Russian forces to leave Iran's northern province of Azerbaijan.

Ultimately the United Nations prevailed on the Russians to leave Azerbaijan. Mustafa fled abroad.

The Kurds by and large care nothing for the ideology of communism, but are willing to use help from Russia in the hope of setting up Kurdistan.

Kassem has said he wants Iraq to have brotherly relations with the other Arab states. He might in time join Baghdad to Cairo in some loose federation. But few Western observers believe Kassem will tie Iraq to Egypt, the way Syria and Egypt have been joined in the United Arab Republic.

To keep the Baathists from opposing him Kassem has to appear to be an eager advocate of Arab unity.

"If we're lucky I might break even, huh?"

THERE has been some controversy in literary circles as to whether or not classics in capsule form are a good thing. I think they are, even if they leave a lot to be desired.

There is much more to a tale than the gist of a plot, granted. But for ready reference a compressed masterpiece is a handy thing. Memory is fallible and it is convenient to have a story summarized for easy recollection.

One doesn't want to have to read 300 pages to remind oneself of what a story is all about. The capsule argument mainly concerns young people, however, or those to whom the classics are an unknown realm. Is it better to padfeed them with a synopsis, or force them to read the whole book?

I think the first thing to remember is that this is a capsule age. Like it or not the habit of having things served up in digest form has become second nature. One reason for this, and an important one, is that so much impinges on the mind nowadays it is difficult to keep pace with all that happens.

Life is not so quiet as it was in former years and there is a greater awareness of many more things. For many people there is less time to bury oneself in a long book. If it were not for capsule information of one kind or another we would be deprived of a great deal of current knowledge.

And even a bookman should not be a recluse. Another aspect of this discussion is that the classics take a deal of reading. One must put one's mind to them, if only because of their leisurely style. While today authors tend to be brisk and to the point, writers of old were in no hurry to end a sentence.

This is part of the relish of the classics once you adapt yourself to their mood, but it is an obstacle to the newcomer accustomed to the modern tempo.

How many grown-ups, for example, themselves attuned to the age they live in, return to the classics very often? Not many, I am afraid, even if they pay lip service to them.

The man who confines his reading only to digests and literary capsules, of course, is missing the real savor of literature. A digest is the bare bones of a tale only; whereas it is the telling of it that supplies the meat. You may test this by your jokster friends. One will merely sketch an amusing anecdote and the denouement lacks punch. Another will dwell lovingly on the details and lead you suspensefully to the climax. And naturally you prefer the latter.

So with the older masters of the literary art. It is their narrative skill, the invention of character, the complexity of situation, the sheer mastery of language, in detail, that gives reward to the reader.

But better if need be to introduce young people to enjoyment of a classic by way of a digest, in the hope it might lead them to the complete work itself.

If it does not, nothing is lost; obviously they wouldn't read it anyway.

TRADE and economic matters are the terms of reference of the Commonwealth conference which opened in Montreal on Monday, but the political implications should not be overlooked.

One man who is not overlooking them is Liberal statesman Lester B. Pearson. On Sept. 4 he told the House of Commons that the conference "will have far-reaching results on the economic, financial, and therefore on the political relationships of members inside the Commonwealth."

What Pearson was hinting at, I am sure, is that closer economic ties will tend to have a cohesive political effect. Or, to paraphrase a motto used by a religious organization, "Families (of nature) that economic together, politic together."

How might they politic together? Well, some Commonwealth leaders dream of the development of the Commonwealth into a "third force" in international affairs, between the United States and Russia. Solid success by the conference in dealing with problems of Commonwealth trade, economic aid and economic co-operation and consultation would give a fillip to the idea of a Commonwealth third force, and encouragement to those who would promote it.

There is good reason to believe that Prime Minister Diefenbaker is among those who visualize the Commonwealth as such a third force. And it may be precisely to explore this idea further with other Commonwealth leaders that he has decided to tour the Commonwealth by air in November and December.

He will visit Britain, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Malaya, Australia and New Zealand.

"I regard most highly Canada's association with the far-flung family of vigorous, forward-looking and freedom-loving countries which comprise the Commonwealth," Diefenbaker said. "It has been impressed upon me that I should visit as many of these countries as possible so as thereby to become better acquainted with their leaders and peoples, and perhaps to make some contribution to peace in the strengthening of those spiritual bonds, invisible but most significant, that bind us together."

Third force?

The Commonwealth disassociated itself from the United States on the Quemoy issue. "Not committed," said Canada, said Britain, said Australia—and of course there was no question of commitment on the part of the Asian countries. On Quemoy, the "old Commonwealth", as well as the new one, told, like and Foster that they are on their own.

This declaration of independence of U.S. leadership raises two questions. The short term one: could a Canada disassociated on Quemoy avoid involvement if Quemoy led the U.S. into a major war? Almost certainly not. And the long term one: can the Commonwealth cut itself loose from U.S. policy leadership, with all that might mean militarily and economically, with any hope of playing a vital role for peace between the two extremes of Washington and Moscow?

At best, the answer can be only carefully considered opinion. But the opinion I have encountered here has not encouraged the idea. As one highly qualified source put it, "I wish we could form a third force apart from the U.S. But it just can't be done."

Indeed, the effort might lead only to the shattering of Western solidarity—already fractured over Quemoy—at a moment when Moscow and Peking are intensifying their economic, political and (vide Quemoy) military attacks on the West.

Transit Boner

Can't Pay-as-You-Go

(From The Financial Post)

TO most Canadian city councils, the idea of helping out a public transit system by any sort of subsidy is anathema. Most councils follow the dictum, "transit facilities should pay their way like any business enterprise."

This may have been a useful rule of thumb for the operation of horse cars. But has its validity in the second half of the 20th century been adequately examined?

The other day the Ottawa Transportation Commission was told by a firm of management consultants that a $9,500,000 reorganization is necessary to put it in the black. This is a fair translation for a system the size of Ottawa's $9,500,000 is more than twice the stated value of present assets.

Why so much? Because for 10 years the OTC was required, come hell or high water, to pay its way. In an effort to follow instructions of Ottawa's city council, the commission ran its equipment into the ground without making proper provision for replacement and it drove away riders by raising fares.

Municipal councils across the land should watch the case of the OTC:

1. It's a good example of the folly of being penny wise, pound foolish. The citizens of Ottawa must now ante up $9,500,000 or do without public transportation. If the OTC had been subjected to a less sustained and rigorous application of the pay-as-you-go principle, the amount of "subsidy" required would have been far less.

2. The value to a city of a transportation utility can't be measured only by the balance sheet.

Obviously, it takes more streets, more traffic lights, more policemen and more parking space to move 10,000 people in private cars than in public vehicles. A utility may lose money according to its balance sheet, but may save the city a much larger sum in street and traffic expenditure. It's to be hoped that the taxpayers of other Canadian cities will eventually profit from the expensive lesson which has been handed to the citizens of Ottawa.

Spare-Time Classes

Why Stop Learning?

By ORMOND MARRION

Last of a series of three articles on opportunities for self-advancement provided by British Columbia's education system.

THREE roads lead toward a university degree for men and women who as young students stopped short of that goal.

The fastest road is to return to university full time, having acquired enough money, or at least to go back to university for a while and then work for a while and so forth. For obvious reasons, comparatively few take this road.

The other two roads are slower: a degree through correspondence courses, offered by some universities, or a degree through gaining a few credits a year in evening division or other special classes.

The evening division of Victoria College makes it possible for adults of Greater Victoria to progress along the latter road.

This year, starting at the end of this month, the evening division is offering 18 courses carrying university credits for students with the prerequisite education. Eight of them are beyond the first two years of university.

For many adults attending evening division classes, of course, a degree or an improved academic standing is not the goal; they seek only to continue learning.

These students can take the credit courses as auditors only—without actually gaining the credits—for little more than half the full fee.

Besides the credit courses, more than a dozen non-credit courses and a study discussion program in the liberal arts are offered for adults who don't want to stop growing mentally.

The discussion program is new this year. Roundtable groups will study and discuss modern painting, world politics, Canada and world affairs, ways of mankind, economic reasoning and great religions of the world.

Last year, about 950 registrations were received in the college evening division courses, including more than 175 in the credit courses. This year more are expected.

Information can be obtained from the evening division at Victoria College, 29131, and is contained in pamphlets which are being widely circulated.

"Why stop learning?" is the challenging slogan of the high school correspondence division of B.C.'s education department, and increasingly the adults of Greater Victoria, Vancouver Island and the whole of B.C. are answering, through their enrollment in correspondence courses, school board and college evening classes, "Why, indeed?"

In growing numbers, they are finding they can train themselves for better jobs and more money, for a better understanding and appreciation of the world they live in, for more enjoyment of their legacy from past generations, and for better use of leisure—all in spare time that might otherwise be wasted.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

YOU can always tell when a committee has been entrusted with the job of writing a pamphlet. By the time a committee gets through with stating a few simple facts, the subject becomes barely intelligible. I have lately had some government leaflets sent to me. They have committees all over them.

Each member of a committee likes to leave his mark on the job. If he is a married man, it is a matter of pride to him to be able to point out to his wife that he insisted on this paragraph. If he is a bachelor, it is worse. He likes to sit and gloat over it, all by himself. Like secret drinking.

When a committee has to stand behind a pamphlet or public letter, the subject should be thoroughly discussed, and then one member of the committee should be delegated to write the text, with the clear understanding that what he writes will be accepted by the committee, without revision. If he, the writer, understands the matter, then the public is likely to understand it. But if five or ten people on the committee have to understand it, each in his fashion, then nobody will understand it.

This may be why the law is so unintelligible to all save lawyers. A thing may be so carefully stated that its meaning becomes cramped; and since the cramps can double you up, hence, double meaning.

Truman Charges:

Slump Created To Hurt Labor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Former president Harry S. Truman yesterday accused the Eisenhower administration of deliberately creating a recession that has weakened the military strength of the U.S. and let Russia drastically reduce the once-great U.S. lead in industrial production.

In a no-holds-barred speech before the United Steelworkers' Union convention here, Truman charged that the Republicans in Washington were following economic policies designed to prevent full production in the steel mills and other industries.

ELECTED A HERO

Truman said that he had tried to support President Eisenhower whenever possible, "but I'm trying now to instruct the country what they brought on themselves when they elected a hero."

"Truman charged in his speech that the Republicans charted a course that put the U.S. economy on the skids."

"They have done this deliberately," said Truman. "They planned to slow down business activity and to create a little unemployment."

HIGHER PROFITS

This was calculated, Truman said, to help "keep labor in its place" and hold wages down to get higher profits.

But Truman warned that the United States is "now engaged in a gigantic worldwide struggle" for freedom that makes maximum use of the country's strength and resources imperative.

"Yet, what is happening?" Truman asked. "The Russians are catching up with us, not merely because they are moving ahead but also because we are moving backward."

Canadian to See Russian Know-How

Russian technological training methods will be observed for a month by one of yesterday's speakers at the convention of the Canadian Education Association.

Dr. Garnet T. Page, general secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Montreal, said he was leaving at once with institute president Dr. K. F. Tupper, at the invitation of the Soviet Union and with the consent of the Canadian government.

Dr. Page said earlier, in a panel discussion, that the Russians should be admired for their technological efficiency. He made clear that he was not praising Communism.

Monty's Last Farewell Taking 'Heck of a Time'

DANICA D'HONDT
... duty at Mariposa

LONDON — The Daily Herald says Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's farewell to arms has stretched into "one of the longest farewells in history," and urged him to hurry it up. Montgomery first announced last Nov. 7 he was demobilizing himself.

"He is taking a heck of a long time to go," The Herald said. "Not a day passes without those of us who admired him so much as a soldier wondering what change he is going to drop next."

"Monty has told our young men they are scared, selfish and lazy. He has told the Americans to stop building aircraft carriers. He has told educationalists that school-boys should be beaten. His greatest clangers have been on the possibility of a third world war with Russia. He said, 'We would have a real good party and kill a lot of people.'"

LONDON — Veteran screen comedian Charlie Chaplin arrived here from Geneva to film some sequences for his latest movie. He delighted a crowd of children at London airport with a comedy routine for their benefit.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. — Danica d'Hondt of Vancouver performed her first official duty since being named Miss Canada of 1958. In company with Premier Frost of Ontario she opened the Mariposa Agricultural Society fair at Oakwood.

KILEEN, Tex. — Elvis Presley fans have been creating traffic jams in their last-minute attempts to get a look at the rock 'n' roller before the army ships him off to Germany Friday as a truck driver.

Names In the News

TORONTO — Parents have "abdicated their responsibility to their own children," thus opening the flood-gates for juvenile insurrection, says Hon. Philip A. Gagliardi, Pentecostal pastor and British Columbia highways minister.

NEW YORK — An attack of gastritis Wednesday killed Bertha, the only live whale to be exhibited here since 1897. She arrived Sept. 4 from Alaska. Bertha was 8 1/2 feet long and weighed 400 pounds and the aquarium staff estimated her age at 14 months and accordingly fed her fish. A post-mortem disclosed, however, that her age was less than a year and she should have been on a milk diet.

OTTAWA — Buying on time is a sin at the high rate of interest charged. Toronto labor official Arthur Schultz told the three-day conference of the Credit Union National Association. "But it would not be if the rate of interest was the same as ours."

MONTEREY, Calif. — Best-selling author John McPartland, who died Sunday, was disclosed Wednesday to have lived here with an unwed mother of five of his children while his wife of 15 years lived with another son 125 miles away.

Education Hungry As 'Spit, Polish' Eats Up Millions

A Canadian educationist hit out at Ottawa yesterday for starving education of adequate financial support while lavishing astronomical sums on other things.

He cited the DEW-line, "obsolete before it was complete," aircraft "obsolete before they take to the air," and the recent visit of Princess Margaret when "money spent on spit and polish would have built a number of new classrooms."

HARD-HITTING

The hard-hitting attack was made by H. S. Hay of Saskatoon, president of the Saskatchewan School Trustees' Association, to surprised delegates attending the Canadian Education Association convention here.

Mr. Hay was a member of a panel discussing the Canadian conference on education last February. His view was that it was of doubtful value, because "we went to Ottawa looking for more dollars and we didn't find any."

NATION ILLITERATE

If education wasn't deemed worthy of federal financial participation, he suggested, perhaps the whole thing could be scrapped and Canada could become a nation of illiterates until the value of education was realized.

Other panelists stressed that the conference had increased public awareness of the problems of education.

George Roberts, past-president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, said the conference was "one big public relations project plain and simple."

Canadian School Trustees' Association will open its annual convention in Victoria today as the CEA convention ends. The trustees' meeting will continue through Saturday.

Socreds Prepare For Get-Together

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Social Credit party has sent out notices of the annual provincial party convention to be held here, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. Between 400 and 500 delegates are expected. Alberta's Premier Manning will be keynote speaker. Solon Low will attend.

Delegates will fill vacancies on the board of the Social Credit League created by expiration of terms of the first president, Walter A. Smith, of Kelowna; third vice-president, James McKenzie of Dawson Creek, and fifth vice-president, Frank Merriam of Wynndel.

an early announcement of complete convertibility. Some conference observers surmised that such a move may well be synchronized with next month's meetings in New Delhi of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank.

There, broad agreement is expected on new moves to increase the free world's supply of money reserves, an action that would give Britain an added safeguard against the dangers of a run on sterling.

The British statement listed action under four heads:

1. There will be virtually a clean sweep of controls on dollar imports of industrial agricultural and office machinery. A small range of specialized machinery will remain under controls.

2. Canned salmon, except from Soviet Russia, will be freed of controls.

3. Newsprint will be "formally" freed of licensing controls.

4. Colonial governments are being invited to relax restrictions on a wide range of dollar goods.

South Africa brought up the gold price issue before the Commonwealth trade conference but a spokesman said the statement was confidential and could not be disclosed.

He said the issue was raised by Dr. J. E. Holloway, South Africa's high commissioner in London. Asked if Dr. Holloway proposed that the official price of gold be boosted, the spokesman replied: "You know South Africa's position on this matter."

Danes Accept Sea Compromise

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The Danish government agreed Wednesday to accept a British proposal for a compromise on a 12-mile fishing limit around Denmark's Faroe Islands in the Atlantic, well-informed sources said.

John McEwen, Australian deputy prime minister and trade minister, said the reply was that "we will discuss any particular point" the Canadians raise.

Labor Backs City University Plan

Victoria Labor Council will support the provincial government plan to start additions to Victoria College at once, and to improve salaries and working conditions of mental hospital employees. These are the two main resolutions of eight the council will submit to the B.C. Federation of Labor annual convention next month, following approval of council delegates last night.

One resolution points to overcrowding at UBC and availability of property for expansion of Victoria College. It asks the government to "carry forward additions immediately planned with a view of the eventual requirements of a university with facilities comparable to those of UBC."

During debate on the other main resolution, a delegate from the B.C. Government Employees' Association said "every one of these people (mental hospital employees) is a dedicated person. They have to be or they wouldn't work under those conditions."

Jewel Thieves Still Sought

Investigation was continuing last night into three burglaries reported in Oak Bay last week, which netted thieves $1,500 in jewels.

The jewel theft, from one of the three private homes entered, occurred Thursday night, police said. Both of the other break-ins took place Friday night.

Police Seeking Molester Clues House-to-House

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police made a house-to-house canvass of Vancouver's West Point Grey area Wednesday seeking leads to a man who has molested at least 14 women in eight months.

At the same time, Mayor Fred Hume put up a personal donation of $500 as a reward leading to arrest and conviction of the molester and said he would ask the police commission to offer a reward. A radio station also offered $500 in reward money.

Police making the canvass were armed with an artist's conception of the soft-voiced, blond molester who breaks into ground floor suites occupied by women and usually ties them up and fondles them before departing.

A suspect, picked up by police Tuesday night, was released the same night after questioning.

Police Chief Archer has appealed to citizens to give any information they have to the police and hundreds of citizens have volunteered leads. These are now being checked.

A University of British Columbia psychiatrist has warned the molester is psychopathic and could well become dangerous.

Unless Doctors Get Help

Children Doomed To Retarded Life

CALGARY (CP)—An appeal for more government financial support and a stepped-up medical research program for Canada's mentally retarded children was made yesterday by Laurie H. Hall of Montreal, president of the Canadian Association for Retarded Children.

Welcoming delegates to the first Canadian conference on mental retardation he declared: "A social and economic problem as great as mental retardation needs the forces of the whole nation working together, each contributing its share towards the ultimate goal which is to meet the needs of the mental retardate and his family."

Mr. Hall estimated there are about 480,000 retarded persons in Canada — equivalent to the population of New Brunswick — and they affect directly or indirectly as many people as are now living in British Columbia.

Of the 480,000 about 160,000 were children. Unless something was done another 14,000 retarded children, based on the latest census, would be born in Canada in the next year.

Mr. Hall challenged doctors, scientists and others interested in the problem to begin a national medical research program that "is the only method to avert this impending catastrophe."

Only Drank 13 Pints

Says Sweeper

GATESHEAD, England (Reuters) — James Scott told magistrates here Wednesday he had drunk 13 pints of beer while in charge of a mechanical road-sweeper, but claimed "it would take 15 to put me under the influence."

A police sergeant agreed Scott was "certainly used to taking it. He caused no trouble and behaved himself in the station."

The magistrates dismissed a charge that Scott was drunk in charge of his vehicle.

Jaycee Decision

Ice Rink Offer Now Off

Mayor Percy Scurrah reiterated yesterday that city council cannot guarantee the Junior Chamber of Commerce representation in the management of the ice rink the Jaycees plan to build and turn over to the city.

Council at its last meeting promised to do all in its power to see that a Jaycee was a member of the Memorial Arena Commission after completion of the rink. But it stopped short of a guarantee.

Stewart Hagar, head of the Jaycee rink committee, in turn said the Junior Chamber would secure a hard and fast guarantee of representation or wouldn't build the rink at all.

"In that case, I guess there will be no rink," Mayor Scurrah said yesterday, "because we have no power to guarantee representation. We would have to get legislation passed, and we cannot commit next year's council. It's very unfortunate."

France Doubling War on Terrorists

PARIS AP)—North African terrorism spread over France Wednesday as police doubled efforts to stamp out the wave of violence in the 10 days remaining before a national constitutional referendum.

There were reports that the government plans to recall 15,000 policemen who have retired or are on the reserve list.

Interior Minister Emile Pelletier called in his senior police and security aides to study measures against the terrorists who have fired gasoline depots, sabotaged natural gas storage tanks and tried Monday to assassinate Information Minister Jacques Soustelle.

The unsuccessful nationalist attempt to blow up the main natural gas storage plant of Paris Wednesday was splashed on the front pages of newspapers. The bomb succeeded in blowing out only a small gas main, missing 34 big storage tanks in a thickly-populated suburban area.

Algerian nationalists oppose the suggested new constitution.

NO. 235—HUNDREDTH YEAR

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1958

SECOND NEWS SECTION

Wide-Open Shopping in City May Result from Crackdown

Black Wreath Greets Store Closing

Black wreath was draped on door of his Pembroke and Quadra store by owner Jimmy Little yesterday, in protest against having to close Wednesday afternoon for first time in 40 years. Veteran store owner who built his business up from "a $19-a-month shack" to the $80,000 establishment of today said he was "fed up" with bickering over store-closing hours in the city. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Change Law Or Endure It Says Mayor

By R. O. MARRION

A year-round six-day shopping week in Victoria may be the result of the crackdown on retailers violating store-closing laws.

"One of two things has to happen," Mayor Percy Scutrah said yesterday. "We have to put up with it, or the bylaw has to be changed."

While he spoke, city officials were kept busy answering dozens of puzzled or angry inquiries from retailers about the ramifications of the law. A car dealer and a delicatessen operator, for instance, learned that they would be breaking the law by selling cars or roast chickens or meat pies on Wednesday afternoon.

LAW DEFIED

Many drugstores and some other small retailers openly defied the law yesterday, although the president of the South Vancouver Island Retail Druggists' Association, John Weicker, said the drugstores would "proceed with caution" in the sale of such non-medical items as combs and talcum powder.

Some operators of 24-hour service stations were reported planning to stay open Sunday, too, to test the Lord's Day Observance Act.

OBSERVANCE GOOD

But Police Chief John Blackstock said general observance of the law was good, and although a few warnings were issued, no one was charged yesterday with violating the law.

"If the six-day shopping week people insist, the law has to be enforced," Mayor Scutrah said. "They told us plainly they were going to bust on the law being strictly enforced. They notified us in a public meeting. Otherwise the situation would be as it was for 30 years."

EVERYONE SAME

He said he didn't blame the six-day shopping proponents — "They have the conviction that everyone should be treated the same and strictly speaking they are right."

But, he said, council had promised to take another look at the shopping hours bylaw at the end of the summer and "we are doing that very thing."

The present bylaw, passed last May, allows retailers to stay open a full six days a week from June 1 to Sept. 15 and in December, and obliges them to close at 1 p.m. Wednesdays at other times of year.

REASONABLE COMPROMISE

"In my opinion, council thought that was a reasonable compromise," the mayor said. The 31-day week had worked satisfactorily for more than 30 years, he said, and council had no reason to suppose that it wouldn't work still.

"However, if it doesn't work, no doubt council will reconsider the whole question. After all, council when it passed the present law promised it would review the whole situation in September and that is exactly what will be done."

600 QUESTIONNAIRES

Last of 600 questionnaires were sent out from city hall yesterday to retailers affected by the shopping hours bylaw, asking their preference between the present situation and a year-round six-day week. Their answers, due back by Sept. 21, will be taken into consideration by council in deciding whether or not to change the bylaw.

If the police crackdown extends to shops selling goods illegally after 6 p.m., city council may also want to revive the question of exempting corner stores. Exemption of corner stores has been discussed before, but a stumbling block has been lack of a satisfactory definition of a corner store.

SERVICE STATIONS

The police crackdown will extend to service stations staying open on Sundays, the police chief confirmed yesterday, under separate legislation.

The Municipal Act, the authority for the city's bylaws restricting retail store hours and service station hours, does not cover Sunday operations, which are subject to the Lord's Day Observance Act. Under this act, leave must be obtained from the provincial attorney-general to prosecute in each case. The police chief said he would seek this permission.

Taken to Oakalla Until Murder Hearing

Stores Defy Police, Bylaw

I Bought Forbidden Goods On Wednesday Afternoon

By PIRET VELDI

Despite the announced police crackdown on Wednesday afternoon sales, this reporter yesterday found all the forbidden goods in shops which catered to the customer rather than the new bylaw.

Tinned goods, other than canned milk on which there were no bans, aspirins and meat pies were sold unabashedly in city stores.

I could even have bought a car.

But some drugstore and grocery salesmen weren't taking any chances on losing their licenses or paying fines.

A cautious grocer sold me a tin of tuna, handing it quickly across the counter. Five minutes later the breathless man caught up with me and gave me back 25 cents, the cost of the purchase.

"I don't want to take any risks," he said. "If you really need it, I'll give it to you. Pay the next time you happen to come around."

Several centrally located drug stores were equally reluctant to sell anything but the permitted magazines, newspapers, soft drinks and candy.

"It's too bad you've got a headache, but we can't sell you any aspirins," said one cautious clerk.

But many stores were openly defying the bylaw which requires them to sell nothing but goods which it lists as approved.

Clerks in one pharmacy smilingly sold everything from 222s and children's toys to comic birthday cards.

"What we can or can't sell is debatable. It's a crazy law and we intend to give the people what they want," said one irritated clerk.

An oldtimer in the drug store business thought that his colleagues' refusal to sell, among other things, aspirins, combs and film was due to the fact that they wanted to make the law look "ridiculous."

"After all, we can't go on like this," he protested vehemently. "Sooner or later there's got to be a change in the situation."

"I wouldn't be surprised if someone has come here and checked up on me. Nobody told me about the law, I don't care."

A car salesman professed to be equally ignorant of the new ruling. He was anxiously trying to get rid of a "slightly used" two-seat small car for a mere $1,600.

Nanaimo Plans Given

NANAIMO — Biggest inside alterations project in some years will commence sometime after Oct. 15 at the Pacific Biological Station, it was disclosed yesterday.

A broader program of research work began at the biological station, has probably seen more development, or plans for development, than any previous year.

One of the station's biggest problems, that of obtaining sufficient water during summer months, will shortly be solved when connection is made with the Departure Bay water system.

Tenders for the most recent job may be made up to Oct. 15.

KYUQUOT — Salmon trolling has been slack during the past week with only a few good catches being brought in from well off-shore.

PWA Transfers Pat Bay Staff

About half the staff of the Pacific Western Airlines maintenance plant at Patricia Bay is being moved to Vancouver, F. A. Wellbourn, spokesman for the company, said yesterday.

The shift involves 15 men in the engine overhaul section. About 15 men doing general aircraft overhauling will remain at Patricia Bay, he said.

No plans for a complete shutdown of the plant have been considered, Mr. Wellbourn said.

VANCOUVER (CPI) — The second break of the week came Tuesday for John Norwood Caird, 41, Vancouver Island pipefitter.

Although his conviction on a drug possession charge was upheld, the Court of Appeal reduced his two-year sentence to six months to run from July 16.

The day before, in Nanaimo, Caird successfully defended himself against a charge of criminal negligence.

Caird was found guilty by Judge L. A. Hanna on the drug charge as a result of paraphernalia found in his clothing when he was taken to Duncan hospital after the March 5 accident which resulted in the criminal negligence charge. Mrs. William Wallace died in the traffic accident.

At the time of the accident, Caird said, he was taking codeine on the prescription of a Victoria doctor in an effort to break his habit and had had no drugs for four days. Codeine, he explained, relieves the withdrawal pains.

"I might have made it that time if it had not been for the accident," said the prisoner, assuring the court of his determination when he is released to keep away from heroin.

KYUQUOT — A community meeting will be held this evening to discuss the bracing with cables of 15 large trees on a low, wind-swept part of Walters Island to protect Kyuquot's harbor. The expense will be borne by the B.C. forestry department.

KYUQUOT — A group of local fishermen have begun stringing wire for Kyuquot's telephone line which will go into operation soon. About 20 residents are expected to join the party line.

PORT ALBERNI — Applications for residence in the senior citizens' housing on Tenth Ave. were opened yesterday and will be received until Oct. 1, Vic Belknap, chairman of the Alberni Valley Memorial Homes Society, announced.

Forms may be picked up at the welfare office in Alberni or at the Port Alberni city hall.

Age, congeniality, financial status and present living accommodation will be among the points considered for occupancy. To be eligible, besides being a resident of the Alberni area, the income of a single person must not exceed $105 per month, or $210 for couples.

Rents are now set at $39.50 for married units, and $24 for singles, with electric heat and light possibly an additional $13 per month.

PARKSVILLE — The Red Cross regional meeting for Vancouver Island will be held at the Island Hall Thursday. A luncheon at two o'clock will precede the business meeting when reports will be heard from all branches north of Victoria. Col. C. A. Scott, provincial commissioner, will be present and an invitation is extended to all interested persons.

NANAIMO — J. G. (Jim) Johnstone was re-elected president of Nanaimo Caledonian Society at the annual meeting Tuesday. Members decided to stage another Highland Games next year, and make this an annual event in Nanaimo.

KYUQUOT — A new 1,750-watt diesel lighting plant has been purchased for the two-room school here. It will replace a 1,000-watt gasoline plant which is deemed inadequate for existing needs.

Boy Held in Slayings Faces Hearing Today

By BARNEY MCKINLEY

A 16-year-old youth held in connection with the Saturday slaying of two men and the brutal beating of a woman in his Colwood foster home is slated to face a juvenile court from his hospital bed today.

RCMP in charge of investigation into the fatal shooting of Charles Mudge, 38, and his father-in-law, John Brand, 70, and the beating of Mudge's wife, Phyllis, said the hearing would go on at 10:45 a.m.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas, who will preside over the hearing, said it would certainly be held "some time today."

But he is scheduled to preside over the preliminary hearing on another murder case (see below) at 10 a.m. in provincial police court on Burdett Street, several miles from the Veterans' Hospital guarded room where the juvenile hearing will be held.

The hearing today could mean transfer of the Colwood case to regular police court. Authorities said it was customary to make such a transfer in the case of a juvenile charged in connection with a murder.

Condition of the accused youth, guarded on a 24-hour basis by RCMP since he was taken to hospital, Sunday, was reported "improved" yesterday.

He has been suffering from shock and recovering from face and neck injuries suffered when he crashed into a pole with the Mudge's truck while police were searching for him Sunday.

RCMP said investigations into the double slaying and the attack on Mrs. Mudge in the family's rural home are continuing. They have been conducting an exhaustive probe at the scene of the slayings since they were discovered Saturday night.

Funeral services for the two victims will be going on at the same time as the 10:45 a.m. juvenile court hearing at the accused youth's bedside.

The services at McCall Bros. funeral home will begin at 10:30 a.m. Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating. Services will be followed by cremation.

Authorities at St. Joseph's Hospital where Mrs. Mudge, widow of one victim and daughter of the other, was rushed after she stumbled into a neighbor's home Saturday crying for help, enforced a no-visitors rule today.

They said the badly beaten woman was in "satisfactory" physical condition, but was "badly upset" yesterday, learning the funeral was to be held today. She was visited during the day by Canon Biddle.

The accused youth's mother was notified of today's hearing authorities said. Also informed was Mrs. Ruby MacKay, superintendent of child welfare.

The youth has been a ward of the department and in a number of foster homes since his parents' home "broke up."

For the past four months the Mudies, whose home was turned into a tragic shambles Saturday, have been acting as his foster parents.

Woman Faces Murder Charge

Preliminary hearing of a murder charge against a Gulf Islands woman accused of slaying her husband, is scheduled to open in provincial police court in Victoria at 10 a.m. today.

Mrs. Alice Louella Kerr, 54, is charged in the death of her husband, Alfred, at North Pender Island, Aug. 10. She appeared in court Aug. 25 and was remanded until today at the request of Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie.

There may be a further remand today. RCMP said Magistrate A. I. Thomas was scheduled to preside at 10:45 a.m. over a juvenile court hearing.

Bullet Wound Victim 'Fairly Satisfactory'

Hospital authorities said condition of a Saanich wife and mother rushed to hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen was "fairly satisfactory" late yesterday.

The wounded victim, Mrs. Emmanuel Parratt, about 35, of 1843 Feltham, was reported

"out of immediate danger" after a .32-calibre rifle bullet was extracted.

She was rushed to hospital from her home, Monday afternoon.

Saanich police said she was alone in the house at the time of the wounding. She had been under a doctor's care recently.

$51.90 Payoff Track Record For Sandown

By JIM TANG

Whether they're false favorites or not, Betting choices at Sandown Park this season haven't lived up to the expectations of their backers during the first two days of the thoroughbred meet, with only three managing to reach the winner's circle in 15 races.

Yesterday, only Keats Island in a race for maiden three-year-olds justified the confidence of the majority. That was in the first race but favorites generally had a bad time of it as three double-figure prices were posted in the remaining races.

Biggest straight payoff ($51.90) in Sandown's history, now in its fourth season, came in the fourth race when Prince Denis surprised even those who had hoped for the long odds on the board with a late rush which gave him a photo finish over favored Stelmar. Never closer than fifth in six previous starts this season and a 149-1 shot in his last outing in Vancouver, when he finished dead last, Prince Denis didn't figure to have a chance. In fact, past form should have seen the five-year-old gelding go to the post at least 50-1. But Prince Denis charged through the stretch and just made it.

Smoggy, another with little to recommend, made it two surprises in a row in the next race, grabbing the lead and winning easily over a field which included Bay Toe, Our Hour, Corn Stalk and Great Count.

Tropical, an eight-year-old, who came back to early season form, was an upset winner in the final race, paying a neat

Arterburn Top Rider

Jack Arterburn yesterday became the first rider to win three races this meet at Sandown Park but the day belonged to Charlie Ulrich, who had two winners and a place finish for the four mounts he accepted.

Blanked the first day with only a show finish for eight mounts, Ulrich barely missed three straight winners. He lost a photo decision on Stelmar in the fourth race but made it wire to wire in the fifth and sixth, up on the outsider, Smoggy, and Miss Keith, respectively.

Arterburn, second twice earlier in the day, was a winner with Tropical in the seventh race. Guy Parent and Bobby Cornack got their second wins yesterday while Joe Webster and Ron Carriere each got their first.

Drakes Start Seconds

Oak Bay Drakes, their first-string club shot through with injuries, will go with their "second team" for Friday night's Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League game against Mayo Vampires at Royal Athletic Park.

Coach Jack Patrick announced his starting lineup last night, and guard Ivo Jenkins is the only first-stringer to get a starting berth.

Patrick, who suffered an injured shoulder in last week's game against Seattle Ramblers, will be replaced by ex-Vampire Wayne Henderson at quarterback. George Wilson, Ron Jay, Pat Cornell and Pete Turko will be in the backfield with Henderson.

Up front, Patrick will have John Catterall and Gary Taylor at end, Bill Ritchie and Larry Brownlee at tackle, Dick Irving and Jenkins in the guard slots, and Mel Davison at centre.

NO SANREGRET
Patrick's injury puts a lot of pressure on Henderson as the club's only remaining quarterback. Tom Sanregret, expected to join the team in mid-season, has informed the Drakes that he will remain in Edmonton this year.

Drakes also announced the signing of Rick McVie, who made the league all-star backfield last year with Vampires. McVie, who started this season with Vampires, will be switched to guard.

Game time Friday is 8 p.m.

Gallaugh Heads Loop

Walter Gallaugh was elected president of the Sunday Commercial Curling League at the annual meeting held Sunday at the Victoria Curling Club.

Named as vice-president was Jack Moir while N. McBride has taken on the job of secretary-treasurer.

The 32-rink league is considering the possibility of expanding to 48 rinks if enough entries are received. Skips wishing to enter rinks must do so before October 5. Entries may be made by telephoning either Gallaugh (3-5418), Moir (4-2877), or McBride (2-1453).

$23.60 for a win ticket. But favored Sharp Regards, key horse for many in the one-two betting, held on for place money and the quinella return was only $32.10.

Miss Keith, a speedy three-year-old, won the featured Sidney Handicap, refusing to give in to the ever-present Our Butch, who once again couldn't get the rail but forced the pace all the way. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13, equalling the best for the meet and being particularly impressive on a track which was rated good but which was probably a full second slower than it was Saturday.

RAKING IT OVER: Miss Keith's win in the feature race was to have been expected, the brown filly winning her last start at Vancouver in 1:12 for the six furlongs. . . Bay Toe, who had a good Mainland season, was a beaten favorite for the second straight time. . . mutual play was again up over last year. Yesterday's figure was about $50,000, an increase of approximately $5,000 over the second day in the 1957 meeting. . . among the horses at Sandown this year who won during the first meet in 1955 are Steven C. Clark's Last Raine, Baby Rose, Eastern Eric, Nanco, Miss Colleen and High Cara. . . only riders who were here for the first meet are Charlie Ulrich, Jimmy Broomfield and Ron Williams. . . Mystery Play and Steven C. are two horses sure to get plenty of support today. . . racing again starts at 2:30 and there are five three-quarter mile sprints and two races of a mile and 70 yards.

Ted Duncan Dons Robes
CALGARY (CP) — Calgary football Stampeders' top kicker Wednesday was admitted to the Alberta hall by Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns.

Edward David (Ted) Duncan was presented to the court by A. M. Haraden, with whom he is affiliated.

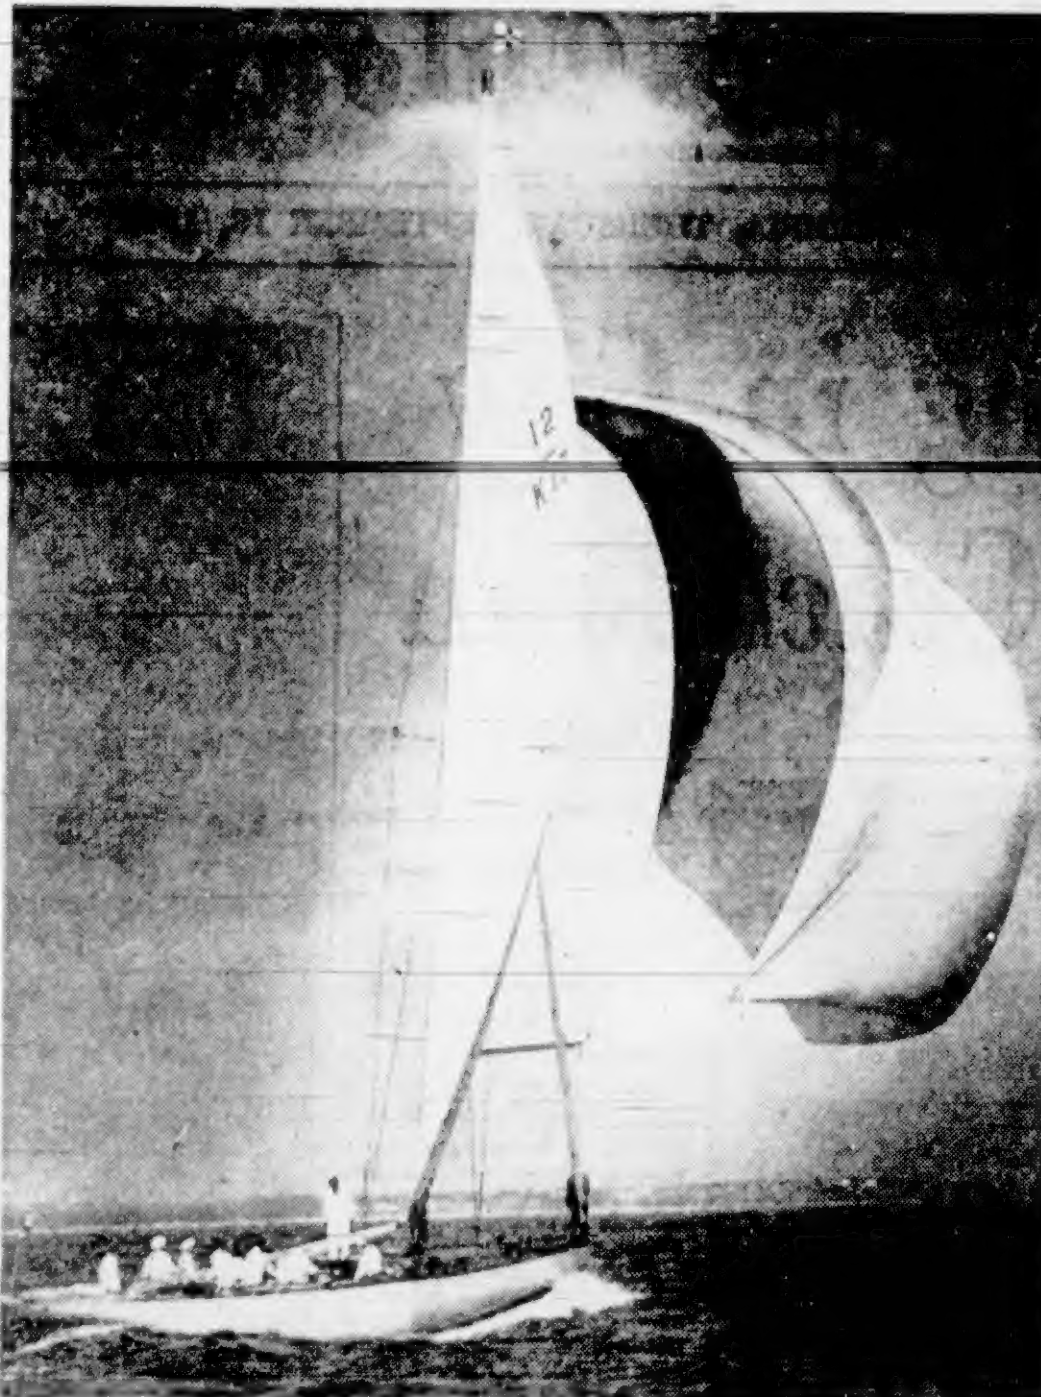

Duncan, a Victoria boy, now is in his second season with the Stampeders and played previously with the British Columbia Lions.

Vancouver May Not Get Classic
The 50th annual Grey Cup final will be played Saturday, Nov. 22, but the question before the league at this late date is: "Where?"

It all boils down to a dollar-and-cents proposition. Reports from Toronto on Wednesday said the classic may be yanked out of Vancouver's Empire Stadium and played in the east, at Toronto or Montreal, because of the high rental asked by Vancouver officials.

Before the day was over, officials from Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver had something to say. A meeting is scheduled for Vancouver today, at which time the air may be cleared.

"Play it at Varsity Stadium where rental is a flat $20,000, Toronto supporters said. "Why Varsity Stadium?" President Ted Workman of

Carlings Win Second Half

VANCOUVER (CP) — Carlings came from behind to win the Pacific Coast Soccer League second half title here Wednesday night with a 3-4 win over Hungarians.

Goal scorers for Hungarians were Mike Kuczi, Len Fabry with two and Ed Schmidt. Roy Nosella scored three goals for Carlings. Jim Wilson and Jack Hobbs got the other two goals for the winners.

Carlings' win gave them a two-point edge on second place New Westminster Royals. Hungarians finished third. Carlings now play Halcors, first half winners, here in the league playoffs on Sept. 27.

Yanks' Celebration Ends in Fist Fight

Reports of dissension on the Yankees hit a New York newspaper yesterday, telling of a bloody brawl between coach Ralph Houk and pitcher Ryne Duren during a City to Detroit.

The New York Post said the battle had been kept secret by agreement of sports writers travelling with the club, but that it had leaked out yesterday.

HOUK WON
"Houk won," the story claimed, "and Duren bears scars and an inch gash over his right eye. The Yankee club is agitated and a platoon of private detectives has been following the club."

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Philadelphia	17	84	.170
Los Angeles	16	79	.163
Kansas City	15	83	.152
Washington	14	83	.146

"The fight was not the first between Duren and Houk. Houk was Duren's manager at Denver last year. At least once he had to tame Duren with his fists," the Post said.

"Duren can't drink," said Houk. "He's a jekyll and Hyde." "Duren began baiting Houk on the train," the story went on. "Houk was staying clear. Duren persisted. Houk was chewing on an unlighted cigar. Duren smashed it against his face. That did it."

SENT TO BED

The story said Casey Stengel, hearing of the incident, stormed into the coach and told Duren, "You get whisky-sick and then you fight your own." He sent the players to bed.

Yankees were beaten, 5-2, at Detroit yesterday in a game highlighted by a tremendous home run by Mickey Mantle, who became the second player since 1933 to hit a fair ball out of Briggs Stadium.

Mantle's shot left the park down the right field line, 325 feet from the plate. The stadium is 110 feet high at that point, and the ball carried across the street to smack 30 feet up on a building. It was Mantle's 41st homer of the year.

AVERAGE RAISED
Kansas City Athletics won the first game of a double-header, 6-3, but Boston Red Sox took the second, 4-2. Pete Runnels hit four for eight for the Red Sox to raise his league-leading average to .322, but lost a point to Ted Williams, who had two hits in the first game and did not play the second. Williams is hitting .320.

In the National League, St. Louis Cardinals stopped Milwaukee Braves, 5-3, and Ernie Banks slammed his 47th homer as Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2. Rookie Bob Anderson tossed a five-hitter for the Cubs.

SKIPPER NAMED
Henry Sears, head of the syndicate that owns Columbia, announced yesterday that Briggs Cunningham will be at the helm and Cornelius Shields Sr. will be on the sidelines when Columbia meets Sceptre in the opening race Saturday.

"We will have several alternate helmsmen to call upon — Shields, Arthur Knapp and Bus Mosbacher," Sears said.

The inclusion of Knapp and Mosbacher, two helmsmen of rival U.S. yachts, came as a surprise. Knapp pitched Weatherly and Mosbacher was the cagy leader of Vim in elimination races to decide the American representative.

agreed rental of 15 per cent is based on a similar contract that the PNE has with the B.C. Lions.

That appears to be the catch. In 1955, when the game was played for the first time in the west — at Empire Stadium — the gross gate was $284,682 with ticket prices at $10, $7.50, $5, and some standing room at $2. Prices are the same this year and 15 per cent of the gross gate would amount to a little more than $40,000.

In 1955, a crowd of 39,417, the largest in the history of Canadian sports, saw Edmonton Eskimos whip Montreal Alouettes 34-19. Officials anticipate another crowd of 40,000 this time if the game is played at Vancouver.

Cook said that after the Toronto meeting the PNE sent a contract to Harry McBride, secretary of the CRU, who met

Rocks Fan Hopes

Victoria's Junior Shamrocks take another shot at the rugged Brampton Excelsiors at Memorial Arena tonight, confident that they won't be counted out in the fight for the Minto Cup.

Excelsiors, who swept the first three games of the series, need only one more victory to take the Canadian junior lacrosse championship back to Brampton for the second straight year. But Shamrock coach Pee Wee Bradshaw still thinks his club can spoil the Excelsiors' plans.

"If we can win this game, I say we can take it all," Bradshaw said last night. "More important, the boys think so too. All they need is a couple of quick goals to get them started."

"PASSING TERRIBLE"
"Our passing has been terrible and when we did get a pass in our shooting was bad. But if we score a couple of times, and the boys get their stride, I don't think they can stop us from going all the way."

Bradshaw plans no change in the Shamrocks' offence. The Rocks will stick with their fast-breaking tactics against the heavier Brampton club, and hope their shooting improves.

NEW LINE

Bob McKee, Jack Wilson and Jack Showers will play on the first line, and the new second line will be made up of Jack Phillips of Vancouver, Jim McNeill and Tom Wyatt, Stu Smith, Bob Bateman and Dave Torg of New Westminster make up the third line.

Phil Willis and Fred Mah team up on one defensive unit with Tom English and Rust West on the other. Don Hamilton will be in goal.

NEW GOALIE

Only one major change is planned for the Excelsiors. Bob Savage, who starred in Tuesday's third game, will be replaced in goal by Pat Baker. The two have alternated all season in the Brampton nets.

Starry forward Wayne Thompson is still suffering from an infected knee, but will be in the lineup.

Game time is 8:30.

Switsons Promise Contest

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Bob Ormsby, Welland-Crowland Switsons' manager, promised Wednesday that his eastern representatives in the Mann Cup playoffs would look better in the next game tonight.

The Switsons took a 3-0 drubbing from New Westminster's powerful Salmonbellies in the opening game of the best-of-seven Canadian Senior Lacrosse championships here Tuesday.

Ormsby couldn't promise anything but an improvement after the way his team floundered and staggered through four periods of lacrosse.

"We looked terrible," he said while shaking his head in mild shock.

Since arriving here the Welland-Crowland squad have been running into the short end of Lady Luck with amazing consistency.

Regular goaltender Justin Howe was injured in the fourth quarter of Tuesday's game and Switsons had to call on spare netminder Jim Timlock.

Skip Teal, who scored two goals for the easterners in the opener, was suspended by Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League for failing to report to the club's training camp that opened Monday. The psychological effects of the suspension could slow the Ontario squad's pace.

Montreal Mourns Houde

Montreal, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Montrealers today mourned the death of a young man who was killed in a car accident last night. The victim, a 21-year-old student, was on his way to a friend's home when the accident occurred. The car was traveling on a busy street and lost control, hitting a building. The driver was not injured.

Ottawa Won't Stand in Way Of Freight Rate Increase

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Canadian Transport Commission today announced that it had approved a proposed increase in freight rates for certain commodities. The increase was proposed by the Canadian National Railway and the Great Western Railway. The commission said that the increase was necessary to cover the cost of higher fuel prices and maintenance expenses. The increase will take effect on September 22.

Each Case on Its Merits

The attorney-general's department will decide on the merits of each case when asked to approve prosecutions under the Food Act against stores or service stations selling goods on Sundays.

An official in the department was asked yesterday if permission to prosecute would be given local authorities who find stores selling goods on Sundays. See Page 9. The attorney-general's department does not make decisions in advance, he said.

Coroner Disagrees with 'Accidental Death'

A six-man coroner's jury to decide the death he could not possibly have been a suggestion from the coroner Dr. E. C. Hart yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the shooting of a 15-year-old boy, Timothy, who was shot by his father, William, at a hunting party on the Esquimalt Peninsula last Saturday.

Young Timothy was mistaken for a deer by his father, William, who was hunting with him. Dr. Hart, "gross careless" in his verdict, said the father should have been more careful. He indicated he favored a verdict of manslaughter.

The boy was killed instantly by a bullet fired from a .243 Remington-Union Model 700 rifle. The father, William, was also shot in the chest by the same bullet. He was taken to the hospital but died of his wounds.

Dr. Hart, in his verdict, said the father was "gross careless" in his handling of the rifle. He indicated he favored a verdict of manslaughter.

Pirates Board Ferry

PENDER ISLAND, B.C. — A school children's ferry was boarded by "pirates" in authentic garb including cutlasses and a rum cask. The new ferry which will carry 300 passengers and 20 cars starts operation today between the Gulf Islands and Steveston today, but will not be able to carry cars until the new ramp is completed at Steveston in about one month.

Negligence Hearing Begins

NANAIMO — Last night's hearing of the coroner's jury in the case of the death of a woman who fell from a train, began with a hearing on negligence. The jury will continue its hearing on negligence today.

Dr. W. G. Wilson
Still Plays Golf

By R. O. MARRION

When Dr. W. G. Wilson, 90, of the University of British Columbia, was asked how he felt about his age, he replied: "I feel like a 70-year-old man."

Dr. Wilson, who has been a member of the University of British Columbia since 1928, is still active in his work. He is a member of the University of British Columbia and the University of Toronto.

Churchills Lunch With Aga's Widow

NICE, France (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill paid a luncheon call yesterday on the widow of his old friend the late Aga Khan.

Churchill and his wife drove from the villa of Lord Beaverbrook at Cap d'Antibes, where they celebrated their golden wedding last week, to lunch with the Begum at the Villa de la Paix in the hills behind Cannes.

Schools Plan Joint Reunion Next Month

Teachers and students of the Vancouver Public Schools will meet for a joint reunion next month at the Vancouver Convention Centre.

The reunion will be held on September 15 and 16. It will be a day of celebration for the teachers and students of the Vancouver Public Schools.

Fake Doctor Hoodwinked. German Army

BONN, Germany (UPI) — The man who tricked the West German army into making him chief medical officer, a doctor, was hoodwinked by a fake brain injury.

Old Scotch Smelly, Explosive

PERIS, France (UPI) — A group of long-faced divers scotched a widely held notion about old whisky Wednesday.

Many tippers believe the older the whisky, the smoother the spirit. Not so, according to the divers. The bottles, salvaged from the bark Scottish Prince which sank in 1887, contain scotch—but its sulphurous aroma is a little rough. However, the stuff is perfectly safe to drink—provided the bottle doesn't blow up first. Many explode as they are brought to the surface.

Finlayson Rejects Debate Plan

(CP). Red China's admission to the United Nations was not a subject for discussion at this meeting of the executive committee.

ANALYSIS OF

The British Columbia and Allied Workers Union is voting on a price cut of 2 cents to 3 cents a pound on salmon proposed by the B.C. Fisheries Association. It was reported Wednesday.

If the price cut is rejected the corporation may be forced out. Result of the vote will be known Saturday.

The men will keep fish in as long as the room prices take the fish at the present price, a union spokesman said.

I USED TO BE A "NO ACCOUNT" . . . in my financial life to be met. Then Mike put the wire. We had a Two Account system. I immediately open a BANK OF MONTREAL Personal Chequing Account. I set the money, we had it. At the same time, open a Savings Account. Strictly for saving. It will help you keep track of every dollar you spend — and save money as well. Now I can confirm 'Two Account'. Why don't you try it. Your B of M Manager will be glad to show you how to set up a system with a Personal Chequing Account — strictly for spending — and

LOVE THAT DOG! OF COURSE YOU DO! . . . and be sure to Attract your attention by feeding him a daily diet of DR. BALLARD'S CHAMPION DOG FOOD... the superb veterinary diet that contains all the nutrients your dog needs in exactly the right proportions. He'll love this Dr. Ballard's food. Your children and household insure your pet's sound digestion, bright eyes and glossy coat by coming to it that he always eats his daily feeding of Dr. Ballard's Champion Dog Food... then you can't fail to delight in and share his abounding good spirits!

It takes more than love to keep a marriage happy

2 FLAVOURS
Plain Unsweetened and Chocolate Flavoured

Perhaps you know of just such a couple as this in your own circle. Still in love after years of marriage with all its ups and downs . . . only in a more meaningful, deeper sense than their courtship and honeymoon years. It takes more than love to reach this blissful state of trust and devotion. Take this thoughtful wife, for instance. Years ago she discovered the importance of her husband getting a good night's sleep to further his business career. That's why a warm cup of Ovaltine became and still is their nightly custom.

Not only does Ovaltine help to melt away the nervous tensions of the day, it also supplies essential food elements to help rebuild body cells, while you sleep. You and your husband deserve the beneficial results of Ovaltine, too. Tonight - enjoy this delicious beverage together, in either plain unswartened or chocolate flavour. Pleasant dreams!

Insulted Ministers Demand Apology For Faubus Slur

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Missouri House of Representatives today passed a resolution demanding an apology from the federal government for the slur against the state's reputation by the late Governor Louis B. Faubus.

The resolution, introduced by Rep. J. B. McElroy, of St. Louis, and passed by a vote of 100 to 0, states that the federal government, by its actions in the case of Faubus, has "seriously damaged the reputation of the state of Missouri and the federal government."

The resolution also demands that the federal government "make an appropriate apology to the state of Missouri and to the people of the state."

The resolution was passed after a lengthy debate in the House. Rep. McElroy argued that the federal government's actions in the case of Faubus were "unjust and unwarranted" and that they had "seriously damaged the reputation of the state of Missouri and the federal government."

Death Train Was Going At High Speed

Too Fast to Be Stopped
By Automatic Derailer

BAYONNE, N.J. (UPI)—Official investigators said yesterday a preliminary inquiry indicated that a Jersey Central Railroad commuter train was speeding when it passed three warning signals and plunged off an open drawbridge into Newark Bay. Twenty-seven persons were killed and 19 are still missing.

LAWRENCE A. Whipple, Hudson County prosecutor, said during a recess in a "summary" investigation ordered by officials of the city of Bayonne that if the engineer had not been going "at an abnormal rate of speed" the automatic derailer should have stopped the train.

COULD HAVE STOPPED
"If he had applied the safety brakes, he should have stopped within 70 feet, which would have brought him to a halt 43 feet from the open span," Whipple said.

The inquiry began a short time after salvage crews raised the last of the train's three wrecked coaches from the bottom of the bay and partly lifted the lead locomotive, which was expected to contain a record of the train's speed.

SIX BODIES
Six bodies were aboard the car pulled to the surface yesterday. That brought to 27 the number of bodies recovered. About 40 persons were injured.

Second Break of Week

City Drug Addict Has Jail Term Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—The second break of the week came Tuesday for John Norwood Caird, 41, Victoria pipe fitter.

Although his conviction on a drug possession charge was upheld, the Court of Appeal reduced his two-year sentence to six months to run from July 16.

The day before, in Nanaimo, Caird successfully defended himself against a charge of criminal negligence.

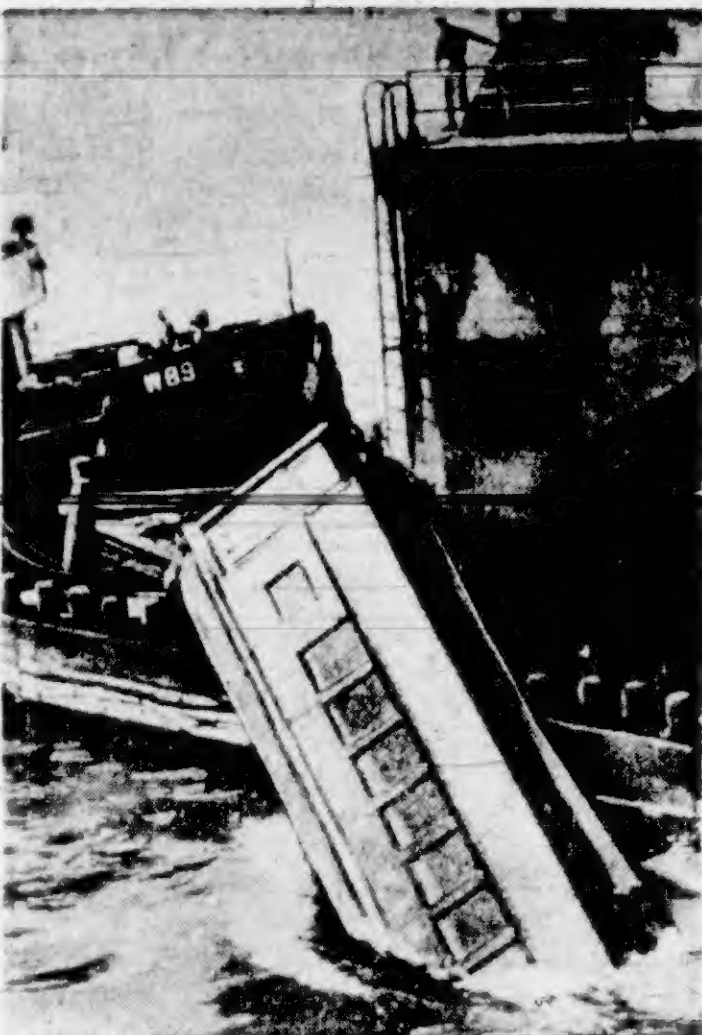

Caird was found guilty by Judge L. A. Hanna on the drug charge as a result of paraphernalia found in his clothing when

The Bayonne investigation into the wreck was closed to the press.

An authoritative source said there was no evidence so far that the brakes were applied before the engine plunged into the bay. The air brake line snapped, apparently as the engine went over the brink, and this automatically threw on the emergency brake and saved the last two cars of the five-coach train from going over, he said.

ENGINEER WAVED
Among those questioned by Whipple were railroad officials and signal man Joseph Halliday, who said the engineer of the doomed train waved to him as he passed Halliday's station near the entrance to the bridge.

After the third wrecked car was pulled to a barge, tugs lifted one of the train's two sunken diesel locomotives to one side and began raising it. This operation was expected to take several days.

Salvage operations at the Newark, N.J., bay recovered 27 bodies from a commuter train that plunged over an open drawbridge. Here, one coach is lifted from bay.

Inferior Living Standards Linked to Demoralization

The provincial government should "make adjustments" in shelter allowance for the unemployed as reduction in housing standards is closely related to demoralization, David Woods, chairman of the committee on recession problems told a meeting of directors of the Community Welfare Council.

Several gifts and a scroll bearing the names of all Empress Hotel and Crystal Garden employees were presented Monday to James Bayliss, 129 Rendall, who retired as first maintenance man of the Crystal Garden June 30.

The last major flower show of the year will be held Friday and Saturday at the Fellowship Hall of the First United Church, Balmoral Road, under the auspices of the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society and the church's Aleyone Group.

The show will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. both days.

John Kidd, director of the Canadian Citizenship Council, will discuss the work done by that organization at a meeting of the Greater Victoria Citizenship Council at 8 p.m. today in room 209, Victoria College.

"A Touch of the Tropics," a film-lecture story of animal and bird life in the Everglades, will open the Audubon Screen tours at 8 p.m. Sept. 26, at Oak Bay Junior High School.

The three-man Workmen's Compensation Board and the provincial cabinet met Tuesday but neither group would say what the meeting was about.

"We just hear them every year," said the premier.

A reporter asked board chairman J. Edwin Eades if he would say what the meeting was for. "No, I will not," said Mr. Eades.

The Gyro Club of Victoria Monday night elected John A. Pollard president and heard a report that $6,500 had been earned from the hole-in-one contest for the club's children's playgrounds.

George Barr was elected vice-president, and David T. Burr and William C. Hudson were elected treasurer and secretary, respectively.

Donald Ross was named a director for a one-year term. Alan Macfarlane, Eric Moir and S. W. Muirhead were elected to two-year directorships. Also on the board of directors are Kenneth Oliver and John Ledger.

Officers will be installed at 6:30 p.m. Friday, at Holyrood House, by the governor of No. 4 international district of the Gyros, David Stott of Duncan.

London Controversy

Coffee Bars Start Social Revolution

LONDON (NANA)—Londoners are currently caught up in a controversy over the effect of a quiet social revolution in their midst. The coffee bars are taking over, and no one is quite sure why.

Within the past half-dozen years, coffee bars have become to London what bistros and sidewalk cafes are to Paris and soda fountains are to American towns—perhaps even a bit more. Young people of all sorts—delinquents, according to coffee bar critics; intellectuals, according to supporters—have made the city's hundreds of coffee bars the centre of their social lives.

SERIOUS STUDIES
Among the recent spate of serious coffee bar studies in newspapers, magazines, radio and television, at least two have levelled serious charges that coffee bars are a new centre for juvenile crime. The tiny garish cafes are jammed with long-haired "foddy boys" and "luch" dolls in tight pants who would be better off at home or in youth clubs, these critics say.

ENTICED FROM TV

For answer, coffee bar supporters say young people are being enticed from television sets and forced to think and speak for themselves. Several surveys have found the bars populated by young artists, writers, musicians and foreign students who use coffee bar society as a sounding-board for ideas.

The coffee bar phenomenon here is entirely postwar, although coffee centres date back to the 17th Century when they attracted leading English minds from Dr. Samuel Johnson, with Boswell at his side, to Isaac Newton. Organizations like Lloyd's of London and the Royal Society, Britain's leading scientific group, were born in coffee houses.

STRIVE FOR INDIVIDUALITY
Each modern coffee bar strives for individuality, especially in its decoration scheme.

Decoration reaches an extreme in Soho, where the Heaven and Hell coffee bar has an appropriately decorated "heaven" on the ground floor and "hell" in the basement. At Le Macabre, the weirdest of all the counters are coffins, skeletons dance all around and the atmosphere is murky and underworldish. And for sheer novelty, there are names like Two Bare Feet, Gyre and Gimble, The Cat's Whisker or the Mousehole.

Jobless Aid On Island

Tops $600,000

More than $600,000 was paid by the federal unemployment insurance commission to jobless persons on Vancouver Island during August, says Horace Keelch, regional director.

Totals paid by Island offices were: Victoria, $227,191; Courtenay, $114,260; Duncan, $113,800; Nanaimo, $124,693; Port Alberni, $87,114.

A total of $2,816,814 was paid by the Pacific region of the commission, which includes all main centres on the coast.

Hatchards Stays Dreary

No Enthusiasm

Districts Oppose Park Plan

Ald. M. H. Mooney's idea of a metropolitan parks administration, using money raised by a uniform levy in all four municipalities, was received without enthusiasm Tuesday by the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee.

City council had proposed that Ald. Mooney be allowed to explain his idea to the committee.

"There's no reason why he shouldn't," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, "but I'm unalterably opposed to a Greater Victoria parks board."

"So am I," said Mayor Percy Scurreh.

"So am I," said Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay.

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich said the Capital Region Planning Board had comprehensive proposals for parks and recreation in the whole area, to be published in about six weeks, and the committee voted to ask Ald. Mooney to delay his submission with this in mind.

Eight Survive Crash

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—An air force C-124 Globemaster carrying eight men—crashed while landing at Tinker air force base yesterday.

The $1,700,000 plane exploded on impact but none of the eight was killed.

By STEWART MacLEOD

LONDON (CP)—Hatchards, an aristocrat among bookstores, has a creaky staircase.

It's a staid old shop, almost dreary. It hasn't been renovated for 160 years.

Under a slanted ceiling in a fourth-floor office its Montreal-born manager looked out over Piccadilly and agreed his place needed a facelifting.

"But I wouldn't dream of tearing it up," says John Hoare. "Not Hatchards."

SINCE 1798

After all, Hatchards has been standing in London since 1798 without fancy makeup. And it has been doing a nifty job of hauling in customers from around the world.

"Who knows," says Hoare, "perhaps a modernization job would drive everyone away."

So for the time being, at least, this old institution is going to be its old-fashioned self.

It's 30,000 books will continue to sit on floor-to-ceiling shelves, behind dark box-like counters, and the 45 clerks will still lay out their displays behind the tiny panes of the shop's wide bay windows. The creaky stairs will still carry customers to the three well-stocked floors.

Despite all its drawbacks, Hoare, a 42-year-old ex-navy flier, says Hatchards "is the prime Aunt Sally with authors."

"If they don't see their books in our windows, they ring up and ask why."

Chauffeur-driven shoppers come through Hatchards's heavy wooden door with teen-age browsers. Royalty has been known to mingle with laborers inside the old store. Visiting government officials often head to Hatchards as soon as they hit London. And mail orders come in from around the world.

The solid-looking brown and black shop stocks everything from one-shilling paperbacks to £550 collectors' items. If a book is not in stock, Hatchards will get it.

"We love a tough job," says Hoare. "Sometimes it takes time but we always get our book."

Swept Down

Man Clings In Tunnel Eight Hours

COUGAR, Wash. (AP)—A workman, trapped knee-deep in swift and frigid water inside a stream diversion tunnel, let go of his handhold Tuesday night after nearly eight hours and swam to safety.

Charles E. McGee held to an old steel rod that stuck out of a rock some 400 feet inside the tunnel at the Swift hydro-electric project on the Lewis River when he was washed into the tunnel Tuesday morning.

He was one of three workers who fell into the swift current of the 2,990-foot tunnel when their rigging collapsed.

One of the workmen, William Earl Snodderly, 31, was killed. The other, Henry Frank Moser, grabbed a rope and was pulled from the water.

Two men were injured in an attempt to rescue McGee. Their raft capsized 200 feet inside the tunnel and the current carried them through. One was severely hurt.
